

Dev Log #1: Week of Sept 20th

General description:

This week began with finalizing out idea for the app that we will be developing throughout this semester and preparing for the first deliverable of this project.

What was completed?

Where were able to come to consensus of an idea for an app. We choose to create an app that help student contact with other students by creating groups for projects, study groups, and more. We then took this idea began creating our presentation for the first deliverable.

Goals for next week:

We would like to begin designing our app and start dividing up roles for development. As in who will oversee developing certain parts of the system
