Dev Log #3: Week of October 4th

General description:

Where I wanted to be this point was get a good understanding of the technology we would be using to handle the front-end system of the app and for development

What was completed?

Most of the goal I had given myself last week, were complete except for the chat interface.

Comments:

As I began development of the chat interface from scratch. It became increasing completed as the amount of code grew larger. Eventually I felt that since are app is not really a chat app, it would be ok to find a simple interface already developed and implement it into our app

Goals for next week:

- Find a chat interface and implement it into our app
- Get firebase working with chat interface and app
- Develop a structure for the rest calls in the server
- Test the rest call in the server