Dev Log #11: Week of November 29th

General description:

At this point most of the front-end work was done but there was still allot of ui were that still needed to be incorporated.

What was completed?

I was able to complete user registration along with login authentication with full server and ui support. We were set back on the group views because of an issue on the backend. But once that was sorted out we began fixing bugs and tried getting a completed app for our presentation next week.

Goals for next week:

- Present our app
